PREAMBLE

This is the tenth of a series of fifteen industrial articles which will be published in the Dispatch, one each week for the next 15 weeks, for the purpose of outlining to our local people and the outside world the vast field of resources and opportunities existing here for advancement and success and for the promotion of optimism and the right psychology. The facts contained in these articles are absolutely reliable and gathered by expert publicists who have had many years experience in the business.

The Dispatch, throughout this period, will make an effort to show that there is not a section of the country in the West or the Northwest that offers a wider field of endeavor than Crow Wing county. Every phase of industrial life and business activity will be covered in a thorough and constructive manner.

The carrying out of this campaign has been made possible by many of the leading business institutions of Brainerd, one of the leading commercial centers of the state and located in a banner county. After reading this article turn to the industrial pages and see who these progressive firms are which so willingly have come to the assistance of this enterprise.

Every reader of the Dispatch can assist very materially in the campaign by sending his own copy of the paper to a relative or friend in some other section of the country after he has completed reading it, that this relative or friend may learn of the opportunities in this splendidly productive section.

BRAINERD DISPATCH COMPANY

By R. KENNETH EVANS

Co-operation and advancement are two of the requisites for the making of a live, productive community and this co-operation of cities and counties is best served through the organization of the forces which are at hand for the development of the commercial possibilities. The fostering of commercial organizations for development purposes is one of the most effective methods of accomplishing this purpose.

What applies to a large manufacturing institution with its governing head and various governing bodies will apply to a city and county. Without a president, executive managers, foremen in the various departments, the efficiency of such a plant would be decidedly in the minority. Each executive officer has his duties to perform and through his efforts the workmen are taught efficiency, each working his own individual work to do. The result of an institution under this class of management is that it is usually working to capacity and at a profit.

The commercial and civic organizations of a city and county should be the governing heads for the city and county wide development. The county bureau should direct the farmers which it does very successfully while the commercial club should look after various important features relative to the city's advancement, while credit associations see to the protection of the merchant. Rotary clubs, Lions clubs and similar organizations promote a feeling of good fellowship among the merchants and give an incentive for harder work along the lines of advancement. The organizations are all well represented in Brainerd and are functioning.

There is not a city in the developing West which has made maximum progress or advancement without the good influences of a commercial organization or organizations. The functions of such associations are to supervise plans for advancement; to pass on the integrity of propositions that are always being submitted to a growing city for the purpose of stimulating its advancement. If such associations are properly functioning thousands of dollars can be saved annually through the elimination of the desirous individual who, only aim is to promote for his own profit.

Brainerd Civic and Commerce Association

This organization is the third of its kind to be organized in Brainerd. All have had for their purpose the upbuilding of Brainerd and Crow Wing county as outlined above and the encouragement of the development of industrial interests here. The Brainerd Commercial club was organized in 1905 and functioned until 1914 until it was reorganized under the name of the Chamber of Commerce. It was again reorganized in February, 1923 under the present name, the Brainerd Civic and Commerce association. Club rooms are maintained in the Iron Exchange building and are unusually complete and well equipped. They con-

SENATORIAL RACE IS ON, PRIMARY ELECTION TODAY

FIRST HOUR OF VOTING IN THE THE TWIN CITIES EXPECTED TO BE LIGHT

NOMINATIONS TO BE MADE IN REPUBLICAN, FARMER-LABOR, DEMOCRATIC PARTIES (By United Press)

In a visit to three of the largest polling places in St. Paul during the second hour of voting in the senatorial primary today, only one man was found casting a ballot.

The weather here was ideal, and politicians are at a loss to understand the apparent apathy of the voters. In one precinct a total of not more than twenty ballots was cast in the first hour today.

St. Paul, June 18—Partly cloudy and cooler weather greeted voters early today as they went to the polls to make party selections for the senatorial race in Minnesota.

Severe rain storms last night brought some relief from the unusual heat of the last few days.

The first hour of voting in the Twin Cities was expected to be light. The polls will be open until 9 p. m. and politicians were out early trying to arouse voters.

Nominations are on in the republican, farmer-labor and democratic parties. These three are the only political parties recognized under Minnesota law.

With nine candidates in the field, the republican primary holds most interest. The national administration is intensely interested in the republican fight. President Harding is known to favor Governor J. A. O. Preus. It was the wish of the late Senator Knute Nelson, long an old guard in the senate, that his close friend and political protege, Governor Preus, succeed him in the senate. Prospects of a light vote throughout the state favored the governor for the nomination. If the republican primary draws only about two hundred thousand votes, Governor Preus should win because of the big organization of voters he normally holds.

Should the republican cast more than two hundred thousand votes, however, Judge Oscar Hallam, recently resigned from the state supreme court, may win the nomination. Others in the republican primary are former Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, Congressman Sydney Anderson, Congressman Ernest Lundeen, Mayor Victor Power of Hibbing, and John J. Martin, Minneapolis attorney.

Magnus Johnson, Kimball farmer and former state legislator, is expected to be the farmer-labor nominee. L. A. Fritzsche, mayor of New Ulm and avowed wet, is expected to give the public a line-up on wet strength in the state. In the republican primary Ernest Lundeen is the wet candidate and the combined vote of the two will be watched with great interest.

Former Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh of Little Falls is also in the farmer-labor race, and he is expected to draw a big labor vote.

In the democratic primary State Senator James A. Carley will undoubtedly be the nominee. Francis L. Cary, Minneapolis attorney, is opposing him. Nominees of the three parties will go before the voters July 16 in a special election. The seat in the senate has been the most sought for in nearly a quarter of a century. Dr. Henrik Shipstead, farmer-labor candidate who defeated Frank B. Kellogg last fall, will take his seat next winter.

AFTER WORLD HEIGHT RECORD IN FLYING; FACES DEATH IN FALL

Paris, June 18—Attempting to establish a world's altitude record, Lieut. Bury ascended today in an airplane to the height to the height of 9,000 meters.

At this point his oxygen tank broke and the airman fainted. His plane started tumbling earthward, but Bury regained consciousness in time to regain control, straighten out, and make a safe landing.

MOUNT AETNA IN ERUPTION

HURLS THOUSANDS OF TONS OF FLAMING LAVA INTO THE SKY (By United Press)

Catania, Sicily—Five villages have been destroyed today and scores more were endangered by the stream of flowing lava.

Catania, Sicily, June 18—Hurling thousands of tons of flaming lava high into the sky from its many old craters and five new craters, and belching molten destruction with reports like those of thousands of cannons, Mount Aetna is in eruption, and already has destroyed one village and threatens a score more. A great wall of molten lava 30 to 40 feet in height slid over the spot where the little town of Lingua Glosa had stood and advanced in a flaming line three hundred yards across toward neighboring hamlets. The village of Biscoragato also disappeared.

Inhabitants of the threatened towns, warned for days by rumblings and mutterings of the great mountain volcano, fled from the villages in time, and no casualties have yet been reported. Roads are choked with rude carts and peasants and their families staggering along beneath loads of household belongings snatched from in front of the fiery masses that inundated their homes.

The outpour from Aetna's old and new craters grows more furious each hour. Thousands of new crevices whence flames issue are visible to watchers on distant hillsides over whom a dense cloud of black smoke hangs. Now and then great bursts of flaming lava light the inky pall with a red glow.

At each new demonstration of the awakening giantess new flights are begun by terrified civilians. Lava pours down the mountainsides and over the surrounding country with terrifying rapidity. One line of railroad has gone under. The station at Gasta Glosa burst into flames and then was buried under the onrushing lava. As in the days of old Pompeii, terror of the volcano has communicated itself to the countryside for miles around. Cattle and sheep are being driven in great herds from the threatened towns. The populace fills the streets in nearby towns, even of those at a safe distance. No work is being done.

The eruption began at an early hour Sunday morning with a terrific explosion as though the end of the world had come. The old top of Aetna was broken off.

Then followed a line of lapilli and ashes which fell steadily for many minutes after the blast. The population of villages at the foot of the mountain rushed from their homes and gathered in the streets chattering wildly. Women with babes grasped to their breasts rushed about hysterically. Many sought aid in churches. Many fell on their knees and prayed. All about them fell lava and burning ashes, while a curious pall of black smoke hung over their heads, so that they could not see what threatened.

When the wind blew from the mountain's face Aetna could be seen belching red-hot lava, and what was more terrifying than ever before, five mouths had opened in her sides.

From these apertures the stream of flaming lava surged swiftly to-

STORM SWEEPS THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI RED RIVER VALLEYS

ONE DEATH CAUSED AND INESTIMABLE DAMAGE TO PROPERTY REPORTED

HIGH WINDS WRECK BUILDINGS, TEAR DOWN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH WIRES

Damage done by last night's storm centered in lightning, a bolt about 11 p. m. striking a 200 pair cable of the Northwestern Telephone Exchange company and putting 300 local telephones out of commission, as reported by Henry D. Hoffman, area manager.

Out of 36 toll lines, only 25 per cent is in working order today.

The rainfall gauge of the government station here registered 80 hundredths of an inch.

(By United Press)

St. Paul, June 18—Storms swept the upper Mississippi and Red River valleys last night, causing one death and inestimable damage to property.

High winds wrecked buildings, tore down telephone and telegraph lines and played havoc over a wide area.

Rain fell in torrents in northern and western parts of Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada.

From a maximum heat of 88 degrees yesterday, the temperature fell around 30 degrees as the wind bore down from the northwest.

One death was reported from Erntfeld, Sask., where a severe electrical storm was accompanied by a wind of cyclonic proportions.

The worst storm area was in the two river valleys, and most damage was done from St. Cloud to Crookston and Grand Forks. Damage in Canada was reported mostly in the area between Winnipeg and Regina. At Ortonville, Minn., the American Legion baseball grandstand completed last Saturday was razed last night. Other buildings throughout the county were damaged, but no very great losses were reported.

Telegraph and telephone lines throughout the northwestern part of the state were torn down. Operating companies at an early hour today were unable to estimate the damage.

McParland to Be Buried at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Indianapolis, June 17—Arrangements were made yesterday to take the body of John McParland, president of the International Typographical Union, to the home of his son, John, Jr., at Grand Rapids, Mich., for burial next Tuesday. Mr. McParland died Saturday after an illness of several weeks. He was 55 years old.

FERRIS SAYS FORD WANTS PRESIDENCY

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 18.—Henry Ford wants to be president of the United States although he won't admit it, Senator W. N. Ferris, Michigan, declared here. "Even if he cannot lead the democratic ticket in the coming election he will lead a third party ticket," said Ferris. "I am confident Ford wants to be president. I have information that makes me firm in my conviction. Ford wants to be able to stand up in the White House and say 'the people called me here.'" towards the doomed villages. The night of terror began. Two entire townships, Ferro Pacciolo and Pallamellatta, were obliterated by the advancing wall of lava. Casta Glosa and Lingua Glosa lay in the path of the destructive river. These towns quickly emptied themselves of inhabitants. By afternoon they were destroyed.

BRITISH DESTROYER IN SEA OF MARMORA TAKES TURK SHIP

Constantinople, June 18—A British destroyer operating in the Sea of Marmora has seized a Turkish transport loaded with arms, according to advices here today. The munitions were being transported from Thrace. This territory has been in dispute between the Greeks and Turks following the war which ended in defeat for the Greeks.

PUTTING DOWN

PEASANT REVOLT

ZANKOF GOVERNMENT TROOPS RESORTING TO SEVERE MEASURES (By United Press)

London, June 18—Troops of the Zankof government of Bulgaria are resorting to severe measures to put down a peasant counter-revolt, even going to the extent of burning whole villages, according to dispatches to the Daily Chronicle today.

Jugo-Slavia, alarmed, is calling reservists to the colors and dispatching troops to the Macedonian border, the Chronicle's Belgrade correspondent reports. These dispatches indicated that the reported demise of former Premier Stamboulsky, the peasants' leader, has by no means ended the counter-revolutionary movement.

In fact, reports persist that Stamboulsky is not dead at all, as announced by his enemies, but has lobbed up again at the head of random peasant forces.

A report from Sofia by way of Athens says that Bulgarian agrarians and communists seized huge ammunition stores at Ortakol Sunday. Numerous minor revolts in various parts of the Balkans were also reported, inspired perhaps by the Bulgarian coup d'etat.

AMERICA TAKES UP REPARATION PROBLEM

(By United Press) Washington, June 18—The United States will soon be "officially" engaged in another effort to affect some settlement of the reparations problem of the European economic troubles.

George Harvey, ambassador to Great Britain, will take back to Britain with him a comprehensive statement of the views of this government. Harvey will be able to give British statesmen valuable assistance in their efforts to keep the reparations problem moving to a settlement, it was learned today, though he will be acting in a personal and unofficial capacity when he does it.

President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes are determined that the United States shall not get mixed up in a reparations squabble. European statesmen understand by this time that American domestic politicians will not run any chances of involving this government in European affairs. The psychological effect of what Harvey will tell Premier Baldwin and other British officials would be tremendous, officials believe.

If such associations are properly functioning thousands of dollars can be saved annually through the elimination of the desirous individual whose only aim is to promote for his own profit.

Brainerd Civic and Commerce Association

This organization is the third of its kind to be organized in Brainerd. All have had for their purpose the upbuilding of Brainerd and Crow Wing county as outlined above and the encouragement of the development of industrial interests here. The Brainerd Commercial club was organized in 1905 and functioned until 1914 until it was reorganized under the name of the Chamber of Commerce. It was again reorganized in February, 1923 under the present name, the Brainerd Civic and Commerce association. Club rooms are maintained in the Iron Exchange building and are unusually complete and well equipped. They consist of a spacious reading room, a club room, equipped with pool tables, individual booths around this latter room for the playing of cards or other purposes as may be desired, and a well equipped kitchen for the preparation of banquets.

Regular meetings are held twice a month on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month. The present club's functions as defined by the organization are to do all in their power to aid in the growth of the city and to make it a better and more sanitary place in which to live; to take cognizance in every phase of industrial and business activity, county and state and to do all things at all times for the betterment of the city as a whole; to assist the retail, wholesale, manufacturing, professional and general commercial interests of the city.

Realizing the important position this city holds as a tourist center and the great possibilities for further development, the organization has maintained a tourist park located at White Park for some time. Plans were made early in spring for the expenditure of about $2,500 on improvements which have made this one of the most up to date parks of this kind in this region. Such conveniences as covered stoves, shower baths, toilets, etc. is provided. The association also is always working for good roads and keeps in touch with state and county officials in order that the roads of Crow Wing county shall receive their just apportionment.

There are four farmer members in the association and the farmer has been co-operated with wherever possible. There are also several members who own summer resorts in the vicinity of Brainerd.

The association feels that in addition to the encouragement of the tourist traffic there is much that can be done in the county in the aiding of the development of agriculture and dairying. It is possible for Crow Wing county to become a banner agricultural county with the proper aid from the commercial interests of the cities located within it.

The officers of the association are H. P. Dunn, president; W. H. Cleary, first vice president; Walter M. Murphy, second vice president; Geo. E. Lowe, third vice president, and A. G. Trommald, treasurer. The board of directors is composed of Dr. J. A. Thabes, B. L. Lagerquist, banker; Con O'Brien, merchant; T. H. Shaefer, owner Model meat market; O. A. Peterson, clothing merchant; Henry I. Cohen, insurance; and A.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 18.—Henry Ford wants to be president of the United States although he won't admit it, Senator W. N. Ferris, Michigan, declared here. "Even if he cannot lead the democratic ticket in the coming election he will lead a third party ticket," said Ferris. "I am confident Ford wants to be president. I have information that makes me firm in my conviction. Ford wants to be able to stand up in the White House and say 'the people called me here.'" wards the doomed villages. The flight of terror began.

Two entire townships, Ferro Pacciolo and Pallamellata, were obliterated by the advancing wall of lava.

Casta Glosa and Lingua Glosa lay in the path of the destructive river. These towns quickly emptied themselves of inhabitants. By afternoon they were destroyed.

BRITISH DESTROYER IN SEA OF MARMORA TAKES TURK SHIP

Constantinople, June 18—A British destroyer operating in the Sea of Marmora has seized a Turkish transport loaded with arms, according to advices here today. The munitions were being transported from Thrace. This territory has been in dispute between the Greeks and Turks following the war which ended in defeat for the Greeks.

PUTTING DOWN PEASANT REVOLT

ZANKOF GOVERNMENT TROOPS RESORTING TO SEVERE MEASURES (By United Press)

London, June 18—Troops of the Zankof government of Bulgaria are resorting to severe measures to put down a peasant counter-revolt, even going to the extent of burning whole villages, according to dispatches to the Daily Chronicle today.

Jugo-Slavia, alarmed, is calling reservists to the colors and dispatching troops to the Macedonian border, the Chronicle's Belgrade correspondent reports. These dispatches indicated that the reported demise of former Premier Stamboulsky, the peasants' leader, has by no means ended the counter-revolutionary movement.

In fact, reports persist that Stamboulsky is not dead at all, as announced by his enemies, but has bobbed up again at the head of random peasant forces.

A report from Sofia by way of Athens says that Bulgarian agrarians and communists seized huge ammunition stores at Ortakol Sunday. Numerous minor revolts in various parts of the Balkans were also reported, inspired perhaps by the Bulgarian coup d'etat.

AMERICA TAKES UP REPARATION PROBLEM

Washington, June 18—The United States will soon be "officially" engaged in another effort to affect some settlement of the reparations problem of the European economic troubles.

George Harvey, ambassador to Great Britain, will take back to Britain with him a comprehensive statement of the views of this government. Harvey will be able to give British statesmen valuable assistance in their efforts to keep the reparations problem moving to a settlement, it was learned today, though he will be acting in a personal and unofficial capacity when he does it.

President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes are determined that the United States shall not get mixed up in a reparations squabble.

European statesmen understand by this time that American domestic politicians will not run any chances of involving this government in European affairs. The psychological effect of what Harvey will tell Premier Baldwin and other British officials would be tremendous, officials believe.

didates to succeed the late Senator Kaute Nelson are to be picked.

Not more than 40 per cent of the total possible vote will be registered, according to indications at noon.

Extreme heat and humidity following last night's rain storms were partly blamed for the light vote cast in the morning hours.

It is estimated that only 20,000 votes have been cast out of a possible 120,000 or more.

Reports from upstate towns and cities indicated similar apathy.

A small vote in the republican primary is expected to favor Governor J. A. O. Preus for that party's nomination. Judge Oscar Hallam's supporters wanted a heavy vote, but claimed he could be nominated if 50 per cent of the vote was out.

The light vote favored Magnus Johnson, farmer-labor party adherents believed. J. A. Fritzsche and C. A. Lindbergh are his opponents.

Political headquarters here called out all the automobiles they could in an effort to boost the vote this afternoon. Polls close at 9 p. m.

Reports from the ninth congressional district also indicated light voting. Storms throughout that section held down the vote.

strict showed 5 per cent or less of the vote was cast up to noon.

In central and southern parts of the state reports from scattered towns indicated light voting, except where favorite sons were located.

Taken altogether from scattered precincts indications were that not more than 10 to 15 per cent of the total vote was in up to noon, and indications were the day would not bring out more than 40 per cent of the vote at best, and probably considerably less than that. In St. Paul only 10,000 votes had been cast up to noon. Registrations would allow for 72,000 votes if all were polled.

Quiet Election in Brainerd

The special senatorial election today is causing very little furor in Brainerd, the vote cast up to two o'clock this afternoon being one of the lightest in years.

Two reasons are given for the small vote, one that many do not know that there is an election, even though the fact was thoroughly advertised, and the other that some had the idea that the election was scheduled for Tuesday, as most others have been.

The vote by wards for the city, as of two o'clock this afternoon, is as follows:

First ward, 35 votes; second ward, 73; third ward, first precinct, 31, second precinct, 7; fourth ward, 22; and fifth ward, 56.

The officials at the various wards are: First ward, judges, A. B. Anderson, George Anderson, Charles Ellison, Clerks, James McManus, Andrew Ellingboe.

Second ward, judges, Rev. E. A. Cooke, Rev. A. C. Smith, Mrs. Blanche Weber, Clerks, Mrs. Clara Jones, A. T. Fisher

Third ward, first precinct, Hugo Schwartzkopf, Wm. Wilbur, Mrs. Margaret Herbert; clerks Mrs. Elsie Heller, Mrs. Mildred Dryburgh. Second precinct, judges, Mrs. M. Kelly, N. W. Olson, Mrs. Isabel Thayer, clerks, Mrs. Alice Peterson, Beatrice Stearns.

Fourth ward, judges, T. J. Lee, Miss Goldie Lee, Mrs. Elizabeth Walenius. Clerks, Irene Brose, Mrs. Valborg Hedstrom.

Fifth ward, judges, Mrs. E. M. Bentley, J. B. Swisher, Rev. O. S. Winther, clerks, Alex. Holmstrom and Ella Hillard

The vote seems to be running close between the republican and the farmer-labor, with the former a little in the lead. Very few democrat ballots have been called for. No doubt a heavier vote will be cast late in the afternoon.

UNBORN INFANTS STATE WARDS IN COLORADO

Denver, June 18.—Colorado's pioneer legislation for protection of infants, becomes effective Monday.

Unborn children will be adopted and cared for by the state under the new "legislative experiment."

Expectant mothers, married or unwed, under the new law, may petition the juvenile court for assistance in the cases of illegitimate or uneconomical motherhood, and the state will be required to pay. "The same sums found necessary by the court to care for the children, for not exceeding six months before and six months after their birth."

FIDDLERS TO HAVE DAY AT FAIRMONT FRIDAY

Fairmont, Minn., June 18.—Every possible variety of fiddler is to be in an old-fashioned contest to be staged by the Fairmont band at the fair grounds here. Prizes will be given for the youngest, the oldest, the homeliest and best looking, the laziest fiddler and the family bringing the most fiddlers to the affair; also for the fiddler who can play and dance at the same time and for the player with the longest hair, for the tallest and shortest contestants, for the fiddler who plays an instrument made by himself, and for the worst fiddler at the gathering.

The End of That.
He was ten, I was nine. We were fond of whispering to each other in school. For punishment our teacher would make us sit together. One day, while being "punished," who should visit school but my mother and a cousin. That ended my first love affair.—Exchange.

Birds Have Sharp Eyes.
A student of nature says that he thinks we may be safe in saying that, on an average, birds see 100 times better than man. By watching each other's actions birds will go a hundred miles to a carcass; and under favorable atmospheric conditions a bird can see a worm on freshly-plowed ground at a distance of 300 feet.

Brainerd Business Mens Asso- ciation

One of the most valuable associations to any city, if it is properly and effectively managed as is the one in Brainerd, is a credit association established primarily for the protection of the merchant from the parasite who lives by establishing credit and failing to pay his honest debts. By such organizations the merchants of a city may be saved thousands of dollars and many unsatisfactory propositions kept out of the city.

This association was organized in 1916 and has proven of great value to the city ever since its inception. Offices are maintained in the Orsahl building, A. L. Hoffman being in active charge as the secretary. At the offices a complete credit file is kept of every permanent resident in the city for the protection of the merchants. The work of this association has also been made a means of assistance to the individual who through unwise and extravagant expenditures or through misfortune has become in debt. The association will give the delinquent individual a chance to pay his back bills by contract, the individual agreeing to give a certain amount each pay day towards the payment of such debts and the association dividing equally such sums among the various creditors. This service is at times a means of preventing civil action against the delinquent debtor, and at times preventing declaration of bankruptcy.

The officers are A. T. Fisher, president; F. H. Gruenhagen, vice president; A. A. Arnold, treasurer. The board of directors consist of A. T. Fisher, O. A. Peterson, F. H. Gruenhagen, G. A. Beale, Con O'Brien, A. A. Arnold and A. L. Hoffman. There are 135 members.

Rotary Club

The Brainerd Rotary club was organized May, 1921 and is affiliated with the national Rotary clubs. The injection of the spirit of Rotary into the business life of Brainerd has been a strong asset towards advancement and has given an added impetus towards the betterment of business conditions.

The good that a Rotary club may do in a city is expressed in certain definite aims that each club is required to work for. These consist of encouraging and fostering high ethical standards in business and professions; the ideal of service as the basis of all worthy enterprises; active interest of every Rotarian in the civic, commercial, social and moral welfare of his community; the development of a broad acquaintanceship as an opportunity for service as well as an aid to success; the interchange of ideas and of business methods as a means of increasing the efficiency and usefulness of Rotarians; the recognition of the worthiness of all legitimate occupations and the signifying of the occupation of each Rotarian as affording him an opportunity to serve society.

The local organization meets weekly on Friday at 12:15 in the Ransford hotel, where a luncheon is served. Some of the most important accomplishments of the club have been the making of a complete survey and written report to the Brainerd School Board on the local school situation. They also financed the employment on full time of a Boy Scout executive for a period of five months and did organization work in order to start "scouting" in Brainerd as a city wide activity. In working with the farmers the club had members visit the meetings of important farm bureau meetings last fall. The club has 33 members.

The American Legion

The local post was organized in 1919 and has a membership of 110 at the present time. Meetings are held monthly at the Elks hall. This post makes a practice of taking care of all ex-soldiers in Brainerd and those who come to Brainerd destitute or sick and help them formulate some plan for the betterment of their condition. The post also donates money to the Rochester post for the help of ex-soldiers who go there for treatment. Soldiers are helped in getting their dispensations and hospital aid from the government. The post helped in putting across the state bonus bill. The officers are Arthur Lyndon, post commandant; Bert Norquist, vice commandant; C. C. Davis, adjutant, and Arthur Hagberg, treasurer.

Lion's Club of Brainerd

The local Lion's club was organized in November, 1921. It has been a valuable factor in the business and social life of the city since its organization and has promoted much of benefit to the city. The objects of the international association — of Lion's clubs are to promote the theory and practice of the principles of good government and good citizenship. To take an active interest in the civic, commercial, social and moral welfare of the community. To unite the members in the bonds of friendship, good fellowship and mutual understanding. To provide a forum for the full and free discussion of all matters of public interest, partisan politics and sectarian religion alone excepted. To encourage efficiency and promote high ethical standards in business and professions; provided that no club shall hold out as one of its objects financial benefit to its members.

Meetings of the local organization are held once a week, on Wednesday evening at 6:15 in the Ransford hotel where luncheon is served. Among some of the accomplishments of the club are the building and donating of a Tourists' Information Bureau to the Civic and Commerce association. The club leased and maintained the lot, whereon the bureau was located. The club assisted very actively in making the 50th anniversary celebration of Brainerd a success. A representative of the organization always attends Farm Bureau meetings. The club has sent talent to the county sanitarium at Deerwood to entertain the patients there, has awarded prizes to the high school students for oratory, and has awarded a total of $100 in prizes in the boy's and girl's alfalfa raising contest in Crow Wing county.

There are twenty-eight active members most of whom are also members of the Civic and Commerce association. The officers are Dr. W. A. Erickson, president; B. S. Armstrong, first vice president; R. D. Stitzel, second vice president; I. C. Strout, secretary; A. C. Mraz treasurer; O. J. Bouma, lion tamer; and J. H. Krekelberg, tail twister. Directors are H. H. Hafstrom, Walter M. Murphy, Harry Butler and James H. Alderman. Directors meetings are subject to call.

Crow Wing County Child Wel- fare Board

The work of the Child Welfare board is primarily to provide proper care and treatment for feeble-minded children, unmarried mothers, the dependent, delinquent, neglected, and children whose parents are dead or unfit to care for them. The board strives to secure for all the children coming under its care, normal home life or the best possible substitutes for it, the possibility for happiness and opportunity for an education and the means to develop into self-respecting and self-supporting men and women. The work of this board has been attended by a large measure of success and has accomplished a great deal of good in the betterment of conditions here in the city and in the county. The board is composed of Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, chairman; Wm. A. Syreen, county commissioner; Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley, county superintendent of schools; Mrs. F. A. Knights; Dr. B. J. Derauf, secretary and Miss Lorett Newman, executive secretary.

There, has awarded prizes to the high school students for oratory, and has awarded a total of $100 in prizes in the boy's and girl's alfalfa raising contest in Crow Wing county.

There are twenty-eight active members most of whom are also members of the Civic and Commerce association. The officers are Dr. W. A. Erickson, president; B. S. Armstrong, first vice president; R. D. Stitzel, second vice president; I. C. Strout, secretary; A. C. Mraz treasurer; O. J. Bouma, lion tamer; and J. H. Krekelberg, tail twister. Directors are H. H. Hafstrom, Walter M. Murphy, Harry Butler and James H. Alderman. Directors meetings are subject to call.

THE OBLIGATIONS OF THE SUFFRAGE

THE people of the far-flung states of the Union are looking to Minnesota today. Great issues are involved in the election of a United States senator. But there is a possibility of these issues standing out more vividly before people who are not close to the state in which the senator is to be chosen. Close proximity to issues may result and often does result in indifference to issues that are so much discussed that they become commonplace.

Washington and New York are impressed by the fact that what Minnesota does today will have a marked effect upon the United States at large. The administration has indicated its concern and New York papers have given a good deal of space to a discussion of the issues involved in the primary election. The main issue that faces republicans is the choice of a candidate who is strong enough to carry the standard of his party to victory in the election in July.

Because it may be true that the election has become a commonplace matter in Minnesota's affairs, and through a certain feeling that there are too many candidates after this high office, many voters may stay away from the polls. They may be convinced that the candidate they favor is sure of nomination without their votes. Feelings of this kind are not an excuse for failing to vote. The suffrage is a privilege, but it is also a responsibility and only those who are indifferent to the problems of contemporary life and legislative power will fail to enter the polling booth before the closing hour.

The right to vote was won at great cost and in the United States where the votes of the people decide representation, the people have it in their power to choose their representatives. Those who fail to register their votes are without the right to criticize either the personnel or the decisions of those who are chosen by the people's will. Those who refuse to take the trouble to vote do not appreciate their privilege.

LABOR'S ADVANTAGES IN THE UNITED STATES

AN English representative of labor has been talking about conditions in his country and conditions in the United States. His summary of these makes it clear that the United States is not such a bad place to live in after all. Production in this country is two and one-half times that of England, wages are two and one-half times higher than those of English workers, and the machinery used in production is roughly two and one-half times more up to date.

In presenting these facts to the workers of England, the speaker sought to impress upon English workers the need of increasing production and demanding that machinery be brought up to the highest possible standard so that production might be facilitated. He suggested that in the United States labor has adopted the wise slogan that production must be brought to the highest point because it ministers to the comfort of the American people. Production in the United States at this time is at one of the highest peaks of industrial history and that despite the fact that exports have been steadily falling. The inevitable result of decreased exportation is an increase in goods for home consumption. Large production represents high wages and high wages make possible large consumption and the circle is complete.

The slowing up of labor following the war has not been for the highest good of labor itself. This, leaders of labor in England have begun to emphasize. They are challenging employers to modernize their tools and machinery and they are calling upon labor to produce all they can with the equipment provided. Common sense seems to be asserting itself again in England as it has already asserted itself in this country, and in this there is promise of better times for those who make and consume the products of the industries that are the source of life to millions in this industrial age.

BRAINERD WELCOMES JUVENILE BAND

JUST at this time when Brainerd is becoming slightly interested in a boys' band the band from Wahkon will help to stimulate interest in this venture. The citizens of Brainerd will give a hearty welcome to the boys and girls who, under the direction of the superintendent of the Wahkon schools, have become so proficient in their music that the people of Wahkon have sent them on a tour of the state.

President Harding has quite recently called attention to the value of music in a nation's life. It would be impossible to estimate the influence of music upon the lives of such peoples as the Scotch and the Welsh. Their music has ministered to their national integrity.

America cannot do anything that will bring better returns than that of encouraging youth in musical pursuits. Educators and social workers have been led to the conclusion that the problem of how to spend leisure hours is as commanding as the problem of how to do the day's work. Evils are not wooded in work hours, they are born of idleness. Because this is true, the youth with an interest is saved from many temptations that appeal to the idle.

The juvenile band from Wahkon will be cordially received and appreciatively appraised by the citizens of Brainerd whose boys' band venture means so much to the youthful members of the band, and to the city through the upbuilding of good citizenship.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP TRAPSHOOTING TOURNAMENT

The interest of men are divergent. Some are attracted by one sport while others favor another, and the interests of each should be given attention by those whose hobbies lead them into other fields.

The State Championship Trapshooting tournament has familiarized many people with the good things that northern Minnesota has to offer the vacationist. Attracted to Breezy Point Lodge by the trapshooting tournament, they have seen how modern advantages can be brought into the lake region where they may be enjoyed in natural conditions that are unsurpassed. This knowledge will be extended by the visitors, who will induce many to come this way that they may see the glories of our northern Minnesota lake region.

The tournament has done another thing for Brainerd that is worthy of notice; it has proved that away up here in a part of the country, that seems more or less isolated to city dwellers, there are marksmen who can hold their own with those who come from the larger centers of population. Of course, a country so located as this should produce good marksmen, but a newer section is not always given credit for having specially able men by the large centers of population. The tournament has helped to bring Brainerd, Brainerd marksmen, and Brainerd's surroundings to the attention of the state of Minnesota, and Captain William H. Fawcett has proved once more that he is a booster for the lake region which he is so magnificently developing.

SEEING A THING THROUGH

MANY things are taken up with enthusiasm to be dropped through indifference. There are more initiations than achievements. To see a thing through demands patience, effort and, as a rule, money. All this is true of the Boy Scout movement in Brainerd.

The Rotarians of this city are to be congratulated on the way in which they have handled the work of organizing the scout movement in this city. They did not leap into it without giving the matter careful consideration. Before proceeding with it they sought to estimate the difficulties and the cost, and the tent standing on the grounds at the corner of the Y. M. C. A. building represents an achievement that has been built up patiently, by consistent effort and the expenditure of considerable money.

One of the criticisms of the age, voiced by able critics, is that there are too many conferences and too few accomplishments. This criticism does not apply to the Rotary club of Brainerd. If, during its short life in this city, the club had accomplished nothing more than the organization of the Boy Scout movement up to its present strength, it would have justified its existence as an organization pledged to service.

THE points of the controversy, notwithstanding, William Jennings Bryan got into a bad place when he criticized Governor Smith's recent decision on the ground that the governor might be preparing to offer himself as a candidate for the presidency. Mr. Bryan has done likewise.

AN ex-congressman is suing his ex-secretary for breach of promise. But this is not so strange when one remembers that the ex-congressman gained a reputation as a high-flyer.

AMUSEMENTS

An Appealing Story of the Sahara Desert Is "Burning Sands"

A desert story which treats the native Arabs as human beings, and which is tremendously appealing and dramatic, is "Burning Sands," a George H. Melford production of Arthur Weigall's, successful novel now showing at the Lyceum. This Paramount picture has as its central character Daniel Lane, a student and philosopher who lives among the Arabs and who, by his insight and sympathy, learns to know them as the ordinary man never does, and so finds in them much to admire. Lane

Milton Sills

"Burning Sands"
A George Melford Production

is a splendid character, sympathetically portrayed by Milton Sills. The other featured part, that of Muriel, was allotted to Miss Hawley. Muriel is the present-day type of pleasure-loving, materialistic young woman; who refers to herself an "emancipated," but who is really a slave to her whims and desires. She is an English girl, the daughter of Lord Blair, His Majesty's "Chief Commissioner to Egypt and the Sudan." Muriel, petted and spoiled, accustomed to admiration and flattery from every man, meets Lane, and out of the encounter of these contrasting characters grows the drama. Lane does not flatter; he admires, but in silence, because while he realized Muriel's great charm, he is convinced that it would be a great mistake for him to yield to it. Muriel is fascinated by this man, so different from any in her circle of courtiers.

As time goes on, she finds him "too good to be true." His apparent indifference to her, so unprecedented in her experience, piques her interest. She decides that he must prefer the native women, and jumps to the conclusion that he has a harem in the desert.

was won by Mrs. Sumner S. Johnson, unopposed, who arrived unexpectedly to compete Friday. She broke 81 out of 100 birds Friday and 78 Saturday. In spite of her 60 odd years and the fact she has not shot for years, she entered the lists. The heat of Saturday tended to reduce her average. This is the 15th time that Mrs. Johnson has held the state championship.

Mrs. E. L. King of Winona, 1922 champion, did not defend her title.

Dr. Roy Williams

Dr. Roy H. Williams of Brainerd, who led the field in the amateur championship event with 99 Friday, fell to a 93 Saturday and was put out of the running.

E. J. Goward, Atkin, took third place in the title event with a total of 194. Art White, Brainerd, and Halvor Runnighen of Ashby tied for the next two places with 193. Loren Heazelwood, Minneapolis, Charles Freeman of Wadena, George Eastman of Minneapolis and George Deck of Minneapolis, had 191.

Leading Professional

John Jahn, Long Grove, Iowa, was the leading professional shooter attending the meet. For his 480 targets he had 466 dead birds.

George Trent, Sr. of Brainerd, was second with 464, Jay Graham of Chicago third with 463, J. E. Dickcy of Minneapolis fourth with 461 and J. E. Harker of Minneapolis fifth with 458.

Praise Breezy Point

The idea of again holding the state shoot at Breezy Point went through with a whoop, the shooters being unanimous in their approval of the traps and surroundings here. Trap shooters who have shot in almost every state in the union say this has been the best conducted state shoot that they ever attended.

New Service Fitted to New Possibilities

WE move swiftly in America — change is the order of the day — industrial economies are changing — labor relationships are changing. The size of the oil business is changing and the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) keeping step with progress, is changing its methods of doing business, to meet the new conditions as they arise.

We invent, and improve, and learn, and go ahead.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) developed the Burton Process to increase the recovery of gasoline to meet the demand caused by the increasing number of automotive machines. It improved merchandising methods until its distribution and marketing systems are the standard of efficiency for the industry.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) developed new methods of handling its business. Many of these are applied to administration inside the organization, — as for instance, the Industrial Relations Plan, the Annuity Plan, and the Stock Purchasing Plan, all of which have resulted in bringing the Company and its employees closer together.

Other methods have expanded the Company's activities in new directions, — as for instance, in the development of a chain of service stations located at convenient points throughout the ten Middle Western states where the motorist may secure his requirements of fuel and oil in such quantities as he may need.

This is but one of the many improvements which the Company has adopted to better the service which it is rendering the people of the Middle West.

All these methods tend to hold down prices. This is recognized in a recent article in Petroleum Age which says, "No other product or power of like value, obtained at such expense and under such hazardous conditions, is furnished the people at such reasonable prices at all points of the country, as oil and its products."

In the petroleum industry the real problem of the hour is service. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is continually fitting new service to new possibilities and adapting its established service to meet new conditions. This policy makes for prosperous business, without which no nation can hope for general prosperity.

As the demand for petroleum products increases, it will be found that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has put itself, by progressive development of new possibilities, in a position to give a service commensurate with the increasing demand.

One of the criticisms of the age, voiced by able critics, is that there are too many conferences and too few accomplishments. This criticism does not apply to the Rotary club of Brainerd. If, during its short life in this city, the club had accomplished nothing more than the organization of the Boy Scout movement up to its present strength, it would have justified its existence as an organization pledged to service.

THE points of the controversy, notwithstanding, William Jennings Bryan got into a bad place when he criticized Governor Smith's recent decision on the ground that the governor might be preparing to offer himself as a candidate for the presidency. Mr. Bryan has done likewise.

AMUSEMENTS

An Appealing Story of the Sahara Desert Is "Burning Sands"

A desert story which treats the native Arabs as human beings, and which is tremendously appealing and dramatic, is "Burning Sands," a George H. Melford production of Arthur Weigall's, successful novel now showing at the Lyceum. This Paramount picture has as its central character Daniel Lane, a student and philosopher who lives among the Arabs and who, by his insight and sympathy, learns to know them as the ordinary man never does, and so finds in them much to admire. Lane is a splendid character, sympathetically portrayed by Milton Sills. The other featured part, that of Muriel, was allotted to Miss Hawley. Muriel is the present-day type of pleasure-loving, materialistic young woman; who refers to herself an "emancipated," but who is really a slave to her whims and desires. She is an English girl, the daughter of Lord Blair, His Majesty's "Chief Commissioner to Egypt and the Sudan." Muriel, petted and spoiled, accustomed to admiration and flattery from every man, meets Lane, and out of the encounter of these contrasting characters grows the drama. Lane does not flatter; he admires, but in silence, because while he realized Muriel's great charm, he is convinced that it would be a great mistake for him to yield to it. Muriel is fascinated by this man, so different from any in her circle of courtiers.

As time goes on, she finds him "too good to be true." His apparent indifference to her, so unprecedented in her experience, piques her interest. She decides that he must prefer the native women, and jumps to the conclusion that he has a harem in the desert.

was won by Mrs. Sumner S. Johnson, unopposed, who arrived unexpectedly to compete Friday. She broke $1 out of 100 birds Friday and 78 Saturday. In spite of her 60 odd years and the fact she has not shot for years, she entered the lists. The heat of Saturday tended to reduce her average. This is the 15th time that Mrs. Johnson has held the state championship.

Mrs. E. L. King of Winona, 1922 champion, did not defend her title.

Dr. Roy Williams

Dr. Roy H. Williams of Brainerd, who led the field in the amateur championship event with 99 Friday, fell to a 93 Saturday and was put out of the running.

E. J. Goward, Aitkin, took third place in the title event with a total of 194. Art White, Brainerd, and Halvor Runnighen of Ashby tied for the next two places with 193. Loren Hezzelwood, Minneapolis, Charles Freeman of Wadena, George Eastman of Minneapolis and George Deck of Minneapolis, had 191.

Leading Professional

John Jahn, Long Grove, Iowa, was the leading professional shooter attending the meet. For his 480 targets he had 466 dead birds.

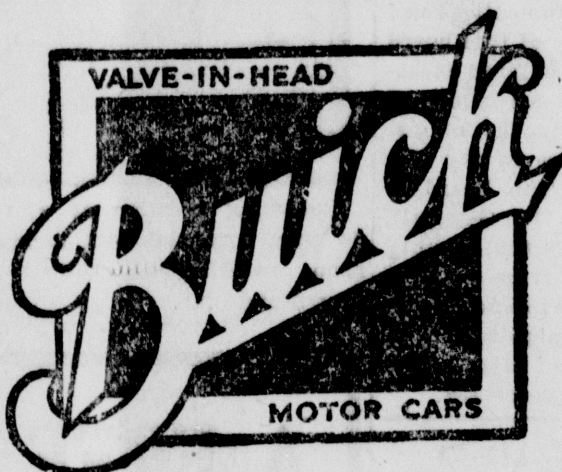

George Trent, Sr. of Brainerd, was second with 464, Jay Graham of Chicago third with 463, J. E. Dickcy of Minneapolis fourth with 461 and J. E. Harker of Minneapolis fifth with 453.

Praise Breezy Point

The idea of again holding the state shoot at Breezy Point went through with a whoop, the shooters being unanimous in their approval of the traps and surroundings here. Trap shooters who have shot in almost every state in the union say this has been the best conducted state shoot that they ever attended.

New Service Fitted to New Possibilities

WE move swiftly in America — change is the order of the day — industrial economics are changing — labor relationships are changing. The size of the oil business is changing and the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) keeping step with progress, is changing its methods of doing business, to meet the new conditions as they arise.

We invent, and improve, and learn, and go ahead.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) developed the Burton Process to increase the recovery of gasoline to meet the demand caused by the increasing number of automotive machines. It improved merchandising methods until its distribution and marketing systems are the standard of efficiency for the industry.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) developed new methods of handling its business. Many of these are applied to administration inside the organization, — as for instance, the Industrial Relations Plan, the Annuity Plan, and the Stock Purchasing Plan, all of which have resulted in bringing the Company and its employees closer together.

Other methods have expanded the Company's activities in new directions, — as for instance, in the development of a chain of service stations located at convenient points throughout the ten Middle Western states where the motorist may secure his requirements of fuel and oil in such quantities as he may need.

This is but one of the many improvements which the Company has adopted to better the service which it is rendering the people of the Middle West.

All these methods tend to hold down prices. This is recognized in a recent article in Petroleum Age which says, "No other product or power of like value, obtained at such expense and under such hazardous conditions, is furnished the people at such reasonable prices at all points of the country, as oil and its products."

In the petroleum industry the real problem of the hour is service. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is continually fitting new service to new possibilities and adapting its established service to meet new conditions. This policy makes for prosperous business, without which no nation can hope for general prosperity.

As the demand for petroleum products increases, it will be found that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has put itself, by progressive development of new possibilities, in a position to give a service commensurate with the increasing demand.

THE NORTHWEST PAPER CO.

By R. KENNETH EVANS

One of the largest industries in the county and indeed in this section of the state is located at Brainerd in The Northwest Paper company plant. Because of its location at the city limits, few visitors or even residents of this city, for that matter, realize its importance or the big part it plays in the industrial life of Brainerd.

Constructed by The Northwest Paper company in 1915-16 the mill actually began producing on April 17, 1917. The plant is large and modern and is constructed on the most approved principles for efficient production and safety and sanitation for the employees. It is formed of a series of six buildings, each of which has its distinct part in the operation of manufacturing paper.

The plant covers an area of 43 acres and surprises the casual visitor with the scrupulous cleanliness of both the interiors of the various buildings and the grounds whereon they are located, such cleanliness not usually being associated in the public mind with the average industrial plant.

About fifty per cent of the logs used in the manufacture of paper by the mill is cut on the banks of the upper Mississippi river among the spruce forests there and floated down the river to the mill. Several miles of "floatage" right up the river from the plant are developed by The Northwest Paper company. This entire distance is "boomed off". During the logging season the company maintains steam and other power boats along this area and the men handling the logs coming down the river, eat and sleep in them.

The mill equipment is as modern as can be found in any plant of this kind in the country. The entire plant is protected from fire by means of an underground water system. Pressure is supplied this system by a 1,000 gallon Fairbanks-Morse fire pump with 140 pounds of steam at the throttle at all times, which can be put into operation by simply opening the throttle. For further protection the company has a 50,000 gallon stand tower which is connected with a by-pass to the main water line underground and if anything should go wrong with the pump the by-pass is automatically opened and the stand tower furnishes the same pressure as does the fire pump. The by-pass shuts off automatically when the pump again starts.

The water power which operates the machinery of the mill is received from the dam built across the Mississippi river. The dam is 200 feet wide with a twenty foot head and it drives ten turbines. Two of these turbines are used to drive generators and the other eight each run a grinding machine.

The two large generators mentioned above each have a capacity of 750 KW per hour. The entire plant is furnished with power and light by these generators with the exception of the big paper machine which is driven by a steam engine. The city of Brainerd and the entire Cuyuna range is connected directly with this source of power and in case of emergency could be furnished with electric current from the plant.

The large paper machine is one of the latest of its type and produces 650 feet of finished paper every minute. The great productive power of this machine is better realized when it is stated that if run every twenty-four hours for the full 365 days of the year, enough paper would be produced to form a continuous strip twenty-five feet wide of a length approximately equal to the distance around the world.

Because of its location and the large volume of repairs and machine work necessary in the operation of such a plant the company maintains its own machine shops, complete in every particular. It is equipped with lathes, drill presses and everything that is usually found in an up-to-date machine shop. All of the machine work that is required in the plant is handled by this shop. A completely equipped blacksmith shop is also maintained.

The company employs on the average throughout the year about 125 men, but during the logging season this number is increased to a maximum of 175.

This plant manufactures news print paper exclusively and its product enjoys a wide distribution throughout the central and western states. Approximately 12,900 tons of paper is manufactured and sold each year by this company. For the year 1922 these sales were distributed among the following states: Minnesota, 4,537 tons; Wisconsin, 508 tons; South Dakota, 558 tons; Nebraska, 2,305 tons; Missouri, 331 tons; Illinois, 137 tons; Iowa, 1,870 tons; Texas, 1,769 tons; Arkansas, 597 tons; Colorado, 145 tons; Washington, 57 tons; Ohio, 29 tons; Michigan, 28 tons, and Oklahoma, 47 tons. A person gains some idea of the extensiveness of the operations of this company and the size of the plant when it is stated that during last year 8,500 tons of coal were consumed, 13,250 cords of pulp wood were ground, 9,600 tons of groundwood pulp used in the manufacture of the paper produced, and a total of 12,000 tons of ground wood pulp made.

KAMPMANN & SON

By R. KENNETH EVANS

One of the growing industries of Brainerd is the Kampmann & Son Sash & Door Factory. This industry was established here under the present management in 1917 when Mr. George H. Kampmann & Son took over the plant. The development and growth of the business of this plant has been very satisfactory since that time and much greater expansion is looked for in the future.

This firm is one that greatly aids in the maintaining of the reputation that Brainerd holds as a builder's center for this part of the state and while the plant is not so large as some in other sections it is experiencing a steady growth and is an institution worthy of the town wherein it is located.

The mill is a complete and modern planing mill in every respect. It is located at 709-11 South Tenth street. The buildings comprising the plant are laid out and arranged according to plans calculated to facilitate the movement of the finished product and the receipt of raw material as well as furnishing a healthful and pleasant working quarters for the employees. The mill proper is a two-story building with basement, 48x84 feet. Next to the mill proper is a one story store house for the lumber used by the mill of nearly an equal length of the mill. A spur from the Northern Pacific main line runs along the length of this building. A feature that eliminates a great deal of hauling is a runway from the second floor of the main building across the top of the store shed. By means of this a direct haul is obtained for all finished products to be shipped. At one end of the store shed and forming a partial second story is store room for standard sizes of doors, window frames, etc., of which the mill makes up and keeps a permanent stock.

The basement and the first floor are the machine rooms for the plant and they are equipped with the latest and most approved types of power machinery for this class of work. The mill produces such articles as sash, doors, cabinet work, stair work, interior finishing and general mill work of all kinds, including moulding, frames, etc. Each machine is equipped with the blower system which prevents saw dust or shavings from accumulating about the machine or being scattered about the plant. These shavings and the saw dust are taken directly to a shavings room outside the main building by means of a blower system. There they are stored for use as fuel in heating the plant. This feature renders the plant much cleaner and healthier than it would otherwise be.

On the second floor all the cabinet work and making of frames is done. The mill has a force of expert workmen along these lines and there is no mill which turns out work more conscientiously done than the Kampmann & Son plant.

There is also a kiln located near the main building where such lumber that comes in as needs it is kiln dried. The mill secures its soft lumber such as pine, fir, spruce and the like from the western coast. The hardwoods used come from the southern forests. Very high standards are maintained by this mill in the selection of lumber and in the most particular types of work the lumber used goes through a strict inspection before being used. The customer may be sure when securing some product of this mill that both material and workmanship are of a high quality and that it will return full value for the money expended.

The machinery is all driven by electricity and the mill has a steam heating plant which provides the important element in a planing mill of a moderate and uniform heat.

Mr. Kampmann and his son are among the progressive men of the city, the senior member having had 33 years practical experience in his line and was connected for 26 years with one of the largest concerns of its kind in this country at Dubuque, Iowa, before coming to Brainerd. Since establishing themselves in business here they have formed valuable parts of the commercial life here. They have always stood ready to back any worthwhile movement designed to further the interests of this city and county.

KAMPMANN & SON

By R. KENNETH EVANS

One of the growing industries of Brainerd is the Kampmann & Son Sash & Door Factory. This industry was established here under the present management in 1917 when Mr. George H. Kampmann & Son took over the plant. The development and growth of the business of this plant has been very satisfactory since that time and much greater expansion is looked for in the future.

This firm is one that greatly aids in the maintaining of the reputation that Brainerd holds as a builder's center for this part of the state and while the plant is not so large as some in other sections it is experiencing a steady growth and is an institution worthy of the town wherein it is located.

The mill is a complete and modern planing mill in every respect. It is located at 709-11 South Tenth street. The buildings comprising the plant are laid out and arranged according to plans calculated to facilitate the movement of the finished product and the receipt of raw material as well as furnishing a healthful and pleasant working quarters for the employees. The mill proper is a two-story building with basement, 48x84 feet. Next to the mill proper is a one story store house for the lumber used by the mill of nearly an equal length of the mill. A spur from the Northern Pacific main line runs along the length of this building. A feature that eliminates a great deal of hauling is a runway from the second floor of the main building across the top of the store shed. By means of this a direct haul is obtained for all finished products to be shipped. At one end of the store shed and forming a partial second story is store room for standard sizes of doors, window frames, etc., of which the mill makes up and keeps a permanent stock.

The basement and the first floor are the machine rooms for the plant and they are equipped with the latest and most approved types of power machinery for this class of work. The mill produces such articles as sash, doors, cabinet work, stair work, interior finishing and general mill work of all kinds, including moulding, frames, etc. Each machine is equipped with the blower system which prevents saw dust or shavings from accumulating about the machine or being scattered about the plant. These shavings and the saw dust are taken directly to a shavings room outside the main building by means of a blower system. There they are stored for use as fuel in heating the plant. This feature renders the plant much cleaner and healthier than it would otherwise be.

On the second floor all the cabinet work and making of frames is done. The mill has a force of expert workmen along these lines and there is no mill which turns out work more conscientiously done than the Kampmann & Son plant.

There is also a kiln located near the main building where such lumber that comes in as needs it is kiln dried. #### "Might Be a Good Idea."

Once Robert came in and said a bad word he had heard a playmate use. I told him I would have to wash his mouth out with soap if he talked like that. Some days later he was playing in our yard with this same child and the visitor said several swear words when Robert said: "Doesn't your mother laundry your mouth when you talk that way?"—Chicago Tribune.

JUVENILE BAND HERE THIS EVENING

Wahkon Band Will Play in Gregory Park Under Direction of C. V. Schofield

22 MUSICIANS ARE IN THE BAND

Brainerd Interested Because It is Also Fostering an "All Kids" Band

The Captain Kidds Band, ("All Kids") of the Wahkon consolidated school, arrived by automobile Sunday night for the concert this evening in Gregory park. The members usually camp out, but on account of the rain last night, they were furnished sleeping quarters in the basement of the Methodist church.

This band under the direction of C. V. Schofield, is just closing a two-week tour of the southern part of the state, where they received a fine ovation where ever they played. Cities like Rochester, Austin, Owatonna, and Albert Lea are loud in their praise for the ability of the youthful musicians.

There are 22 members in the organization, six of this number being girls. The instrumentation is as follows:

Cornets, Ruth Dohn, Harold Kalberg, Hiram Titus, Alton Hill, Telford Swennes and Joe BaDour. Clarinets, George Parish, and Elmer Olson, Trombones, Lyla Smith, Oliver Oredson and Ramond Crotte. Saxophones, Ray Smith, Altos, Lewis Oakes, Alfred Halgren, Ralph Blesi and Gladys BaDour. Basses, Helen Schrauth, Agnes Hoefler and Clifford Blesi. Drums, Mildred Swennes and Ordway Swennes.

Brainerd will be especially interested in hearing this juvenile band since a similar organization is just getting under way in this city. The Wahkon band is only a little over a year old, and they demonstrate in a vivid manner what can be done along this line in a very short time.

Incidentally, the Wahkon band is boosting the lake and agricultural possibilities of its session.

The band was brought to the city through the efforts of the Brainerd Rotary club, which association asks that Brainerd people turn out 100 per cent to welcome the young players. The concert at Gregory park begins at 8 o'clock.

Crow Wing County Child Welfare Board Endeavors to Aid 14 Year Motherless Girl

The Crow Wing County Child Welfare Board wishes to find a home for a fourteen-year old girl who is motherless. Her father can furnish her with clothing, but can do very little more for her.

A farm home, with a family in moderate circumstances, is preferred, where the girl will receive a mother's care and home training in return for household services and care of the children.

Anyone who can make such a home for this girl, or knows of such a home is asked to telephone 27-W, or write to Miss Loretto Newman, executive secretary of the Child Welfare Board at the court house, Brainerd.

Might Be a Good Idea.

Once Robert came in and said a bad word he had heard a playmate use. I told him I would have to wash his mouth out with soap if he talked like that. Some days later he was playing in our yard with this same child and the visitor said several swear words when Robert said: "Doesn't your mother laundry your mouth when you talk that way?"—Chicago Tribune.

JUVENILE BAND HERE THIS EVENING

Wahkon Band Will Play in Gregory Park Under Direction of C. V. Schofield

22 MUSICIANS ARE IN THE BAND

Brainerd Interested Because It is Also Fostering an "All Kids" Band

The Captain Kidds Band, ("All Kids") of the Wahkon consolidated school, arrived by automobile Sunday night for the concert this evening in Gregory park. The members usually camp out, but on account of the rain last night, they were furnished sleeping quarters in the basement of the Methodist church.

This band under the direction of C. V. Schofield, is just closing a two-week tour of the southern part of the state, where they received a fine ovation where ever they played.

Cities like Rochester, Austin, Owatonna, and Albert Lea are loud in their praise for the ability of the youthful musicians.

There are 22 members in the organization, six of this number being girls. The instrumentation is as follows:

Cornets, Ruth Dohn, Harold Kalberg, Hiram Titus, Alton Hill, Telford Swennes and Joe BaDour. Clarinets, George Parish and Elmer Olson.

Trombones, Lyla Smith, Oliver Oredson and Ramond Crote. Saxophones, Ray Smith, Altos, Lewis Oakes, Alfred Hulgren, Ralph Blesi and Gladys BaDour. Basses, Helen Schrauth, Agnes Hofer and Clifford Blesi. Drums, Mildred Swennes and Ordway Swennes.

Brainerd will be especially interested in hearing this juvenile band since a similar organization is just getting under way in this city. The Wahkon band is only a little over a year old, and they demonstrate in a vivid manner what can be done along this line in a very short time.

Incidentally, the Wahkon band is boosting the lake and agricultural possibilities of its session.

The band was brought to the city through the efforts of the Brainerd Rotary club, which association asks that Brainerd people turn out 100 per cent to welcome the young players. The concert at Gregory park begins at 8 o'clock.

SEEK HOME FOR GIRL

Crow Wing County Child Welfare Board Endeavors to Aid 14 Year Motherless Girl

The Crow Wing County Child Welfare Board wishes to find a home for a fourteen-year old girl who is motherless. Her father can furnish her with clothing, but can do very little more for her.

A farm home, with a family in moderate circumstances, is preferred, where the girl will receive a mother's care and home training in return for household services and care of the children.

Anyone who can make such a home for this girl, or knows of such a home is asked to telephone 17-W, or write to Miss Loretto Newman, executive secretary of the Child Welfare Board, at the court house, Brainerd.

SHOOTING IN CHICAGO

"BLACK BELT" TODAY

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 18—Sporadic racial outbreaks occurred here today as the result of shooting in the "black belt". Two negroes were killed by a policeman and a vice investigator.

Morris Cohn, white man, was stabbed in the back by a negro. The black fled. T. C. Lambrecht, white, and Lee Anderson, negro, both employees of the Illinois Athletic club, engaged in a fight over the black belt situation.

Lambrecht was badly beaten and Anderson arrested.

The black belt trouble was ascribed by police to a vice crusade against resorts and gangs in the south side negro section. Nearly one hundred extra policemen were sent to the district today.

Code of the North

By ANTHONY REIMERT

(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

FOR seven weeks Jean Ravel had been trudging steadily northward, a black fury in his heart that steadily increased with each mile that brought him nearer to the cabin where Pierre Lacroix was spending the winter, laying his trap lines. For Pierre Lacroix had stolen Marie Duchesne, to whom Jean had been engaged when he started south the spring before to sell his furs.

Jean had returned to find Marie gone—gone with Pierre. And he had set off with murder in his heart.

Pierre was wanted by the police for theft. He had held up a sleigh mail the preceding winter and helped himself to two dogs. It was true his own dogs were dead, and that he had no alternative save a five-hundred mile trudge southward. But Canadian law is ignorant of fine distinctions. Pierre had stolen, and even now the police were after him.

Jean knew this, but he had no intention of notifying the police. His quarrel with Pierre was strictly a personal one, and he meant to settle it in his own fashion. He meant to fight it out with him, man to man, on the snows; and Marie would fall to the winner.

So he trudged north beside his sleigh, the rage in his heart ever increasing as he neared Pierre's cabin. And when at last the cabin came in sight Jean's heart beat so that it nearly burst.

He drove his dogs up to the door and halted them. He rapped upon the door. Marie opened it.

At the sight of Jean she uttered a little scream, and stood staring at him, bereft of speech.

"You know what I have come for," said Jean.

"He is not here,"

"Where is he?"

"Laying his lines."

"When will he return?"

"I do not know. A week perhaps."

"Good. I shall wait for him." He pitched his tent at Marie's door.

Marie came to him. "Jean, wilt thou not forgive?"

"I shall forgive when I have repaid," answered Jean.

"Pierre and I loved each other. I was the more to blame. He did not wish me to come with him. We are married. Would you make me a widow?"

Jean ground his teeth in his fury. "All that is nothing to me," he answered. "Thou wast affianced to me. A man seeks revenge for betrayal."

Marie came nearer to him. "If not for my sake," she pleaded, "for the sake of the babe unborn."

Jean started, stared at her. And the flame of anger that overcame him made everything turn red. "All the better," he cried loudly. "That will be a better revenge than I had dreamed of."

With a cry Marie fell prostrate in the snow.

Jean stood there, smiling, until she picked herself up moaning. And suddenly she began staring out across the plain.

Jean, following her eyes, saw a figure tramping toward the cabin, beside a four-dog sleigh. So Pierre was already returning. She had lied to him, as she had lied before.

Still smiling, Jean drew the pistol from his coat and waited. He saw the look of terror frozen on Marie's face. It was strange that she made no move to intercept him, to save her man, no plea; just stood there looking at him in that frozen silence.

"Good!" said Jean. "I shall not murder. He and I shall fight it out, man to man. Perhaps he will kill me. Then you will be at peace all your days."

And still Marie said nothing. And now the figure was coming nearer and nearer. The setting sun, shining in Jean's eyes, blinded him, and his hat, too, blinded him, so that he could only stand, clutching his pistol, waiting till his enemy was at hand.

His dogs, seeing those of the newcomer, set up a discordant howling.

Suddenly, so quickly that Jean was taken by surprise, the other had drawn a pistol and covered him.

"Hands up, Pierre Lacroix!" he cried excitedly. "I have you now."

And then Jean saw that this was not Pierre, his enemy, but a corporal of the North-West Mounted. And he realized that he did not know him.

Jean glanced at Marie, and suddenly something broke within him. He flung his hands up, letting the pistol fall.

"Yes, I am Pierre Lacroix, and I will go with you quietly," he said.

First "Cozy Evening" at Home.

It was a remark of Mrs. McNab's to her husband at a movie that resulted in the experiment which ended so disastrously.

"Mac," said she, "we haven't spent an evening at home together in years. Let's." Mac grunted and agreed.

The next night, having consumed dinner, says the New York Sun story, the two sat down in the living room to "a cozy little evening" by themselves. That was at 8:05. At 8:10 Mac picked up the newspaper and with some remark about the market began to read. At 8:15 his cigar went out and the paper slipped from his hand. At 8:20 he commenced to nod and at 8:25 he was frankly and unashamedly snoring.

At 8:25½ Mrs. McNab wept bitterly at what she called his perfidy. At 8:30 she shook him till he awoke and the rest of the evening till bedtime was spent in mutual recriminations.

A Quaker City Idol

Folks meet Wad Mathews, the galloping young outfielder of Connie Mack's rejuvenated Athletics. The youngster has been christened "Sparkplug" and is proving himself every bit as popular and successful as his namesake.

over how much I could have in return. To make the confession which follows will probably damn me as a business man, but the truth is that I repeatedly forgot to go and draw my salary, and was surprised to find two or three checks handed me by the cashier instead of one check—with the result that the cashier finally hit upon the plan of mailing me my salary weekly! Let me make another confession, also a very unbusinesslike one, I fear: I never kept regular tabs on how much money I had in the bank. I knew, of course, in a general way about how rapidly or slowly I was getting ahead of my expenditures and once in a while I would inquire as to the exact status.

I don't like people who are continually thinking about money and continually talking about money. Money isn't life; money is only a by-product of life. The main thing, as I see it, is to develop your abilities to the fullest extent, apply them day by day with all possible diligence and intelligence, honestly earn as much as you can; spend prudently, and as your circumstances improve, more and more generously and unselfishly utilize the surplus as profitably as you know how. Then forget the money end of life and devote your mind to useful effort.

And the chances are it will all come out right in the end.—B. C. Forbes in Forbes Magazine.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Advt.

MORE IN LIFE THAN MONEY

Writer Admits That His Rules for Living May Be Odd, but He Defends Them Ably.

Do you find your mind dwelling a great deal upon money, upon the making of money, upon the spending of money? I don't know whether my idea, my policy, my practice regarding this matter is wise or not. However, it has worked out to my satisfaction and is not going to cause any regrets at the close of the chapter. I very early made up my mind how I would act in regard to money making and money spending. I said to myself: "I am going to make all the money I can honestly, and I shall spare no effort to increase my usefulness, and as a corollary, my earning capacity. I am going to spend what I need to spend and spend it neither stingily nor foolishly, but in a rational, sensible way. And then I am going to let it go at that. Whether I build up a fortune rapidly or succeed in saving only slowly, I am not going to worry one iota."

The result was that I rarely let my mind dwell on the subject of money. I found myself becoming more and more interested, as I grew older, in what I could accomplish, in what I could put into the world, and less concerned

CAN WILLARD COME BACK TWICE? IS ASKED

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

Jess Willard has already proved, in a way, that it is possible for an "old man" to come back. He has yet to prove, however, that he can come-back twice.

Jack McAuliffe, the veteran light weight and the only retired, undefeated champion, believes that Willard blew all his chances to come back when he stopped work after winning from the light-hitting Floyd Johnson.

McAuliffe is one of the best authorities and judges of boxing in the country and he has a big following.

"Willard has always had a one-way mind," McAuliffe says. "He would never listen to advice and would never have anyone around him to advise him. He worked himself around into fine shape before the Johnson fight and then stopped."

"Any trainer in the world would have told him to keep on training. After getting himself trimmed down like he was he will fill up again rapidly as long as he stays away from work and he will not get that weight off again without hurting himself."

"I thought, after seeing his comeback against Johnson, that he would have a good chance to beat big Firpo, but he won't now, unless Firpo gets in the same mental state as Willard."

"Firpo may do that very thing. He's money crazy and he does not like to be managed. Instead of running down to Havana, Mexico and around the country picking up a few dollars, he ought to be staying in the gymnasium with Jimmy De Forest and learning something about the business."

"De Forest is one trainer in the country who can make a fighter. There are very few trainers like that and there are very few made fighters. Firpo has a lot of natural ability, but he is too old to be made over. It is possible to get a youngster about the age of eighteen and teach him the game. Benny Leonard is a made fighter, and he started when he was just a kid."

"Firpo is getting near the thirties, and I believe he is too old to pick up a lot of fine points. He seems to be after the money, and nothing else, and no doubt he cares little about picking up the fine points."

McAuliffe was one of the few experts who picked Dempsey to win the heavyweight championship from Jess Willard. He came within a round of naming the knockout of Georges Carpentier, and he has picked the winner of nearly every big fight in the last three years.

He thinks that Tommy Gibbons has a fine chance to win the title from Dempsey.

"Dempsey will never be as good as he was at Toledo. He's the champion now and he was the desperate challenger when he went against Willard. He's got to pull his punches and it's a bad habit to get into."

"Gibbons is a dangerous man. He's cautious and he won't give Dempsey the chances and the openings that Carpentier did. Dempsey won't have the kick in his punches either, when he finds a man going back with every punch."

BIG SMALL MOUTH BASS IS CAUGHT

One of the largest small mouth bass ever caught in the Brainerd lake region is on exhibition at the Perry hardware company, where His Majesty, dead of course, reposes on a catafalque of crushed ice.

He weighs 5 and ¼ pounds and is 21 inches in length. He was caught in Pillager lake, a small arm of Gull lake, by Henry VanSickle. The fish will probably land a prize for the fisherman.

PENN TRACK CAPTAINS SET NEW DASH MARKS

Philadelphia, June 18.—Herald E. (Boots) Lever, captain of Penn track team, broke the world's 65 and 75 yard dash records on Franklin field in the alumni track meet. Lever covered the 65 yards in 6.8 seconds, two-tenths second better than the previous record and the 75 yards in 7.5 seconds, clipping one-tenth of a second off the record.

Larry Brown, captain of Penn's 1922 track team, broke the world's 500 meter record by running the distance in 1 minute 3.7 seconds. The old record was held by Svend Lundgren of Sweden.

Astrologer Forecasts Civil War in 1942-44

New York, June 16.—Civil war in the United States in the years 1942-1944 is prognosticated by Evangeline S. Adams yesterday on the steamship Homeric after a two months' honeymoon in Europe.

Though the stars indicate the future war, there is no immediate cause to worry, she said, as "President Harding is under good conditions and the nation is benefitting."

Miss Adams has predicted many events, among them being the 1917 panic, the Windsor hotel fire, the death of Caruso in his native land, and the death of King Edward, which came to pass. While abroad she read the horoscope of Stanley Baldwin, new British premier.

Bush Making Record

Bush shut out Detroit yesterday. He has now pitched two straight games and 5 innings, total of 23 innings, with no run scored against him.

The Duluth News Tribune today ran a three column picture headed: "Some Pitcher, Swatter and Base Runner is 'Bullet' Joe Bush," stating that "pitching against the St. Louis Browns, Joe Bush, star slapper of the New York Yankees, had a regular field day. Joe succeeded in whitewashing the Browns, 5 to 0, and is shown scoring after slamming out a triple."

SHELBY RUSTLING UP ANOTHER PAYMENT

(Copyright 1923 by United Press) Shelby, Mont., June 18.—Without any rustling of feathers or surface indications of friction, the new "management" of the Dempsey-Gibbons heavyweight championship match assumed control of the promoter's offices here today.

Dan Tracey, hotel man of Great Falls, who has been given the run of that town to raise $25,000 to help meet the second installment of Jack Dempsey's $300,000 purse, arrived this morning and started what he called "some looking around."

With Tracey was Frank Fogarty, expert accountant, who is to act as assistant manager under the new regime.

Tracey said he had planned no new outline or purpose and that he did not intend to do any "cleaning out" of the present organization. Fogarty said his purpose was to get busy and push the sale of tickets so that the final $100,000 installment due Dempsey may be ready for him July 2.

Both Tracey and Fogarty indicated they would take every step to further good management from row on.

Mike Collins, matchmaker of the affair, said his only desire now is to "get cleared of any charges of mismanagement of the Shelby office," which was said to be responsible for last week's crisis.

CAN WILLARD COME BACK TWICE? IS ASKED

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

Jess Willard has already proved, in a way, that it is possible for an "old man" to come back. He has yet to prove, however, that he can come back twice.

Jack McAuliffe, the veteran light weight and the only retired, undefeated champion, believes that Willard blew all his chances to come back when he stopped work after winning from the light-hitting Floyd Johnson.

McAuliffe is one of the best authorities and judges of boxing in the country and he has a big following.

"Willard has always had a one-way mind," McAuliffe says. "He would never listen to advice and would never have anyone around him to advise him. He worked himself around into fine shape before the Johnson fight and then stopped."

"Any trainer in the world would have told him to keep on training. After getting himself trimmed down like he was he will fill up again rapidly as long as he stays away from work and he will not get that weight off again without hurting himself."

"I thought, after seeing his comeback against Johnson, that he would have a good chance to beat big Firpo, but he won't now, unless Firpo gets in the same mental state as Willard."

"Firpo may do that very thing. He's money crazy and he does not like to be managed. Instead of running down to Havana, Mexico and around the country picking up a few dollars, he ought to be staying in the gymnasium with Jimmy De Forest and learning something about the business."

"De Forest is one trainer in the country who can make a fighter. There are very few trainers like that and there are very few made fighters. Firpo has a lot of natural ability, but he is too old to be made over. It is possible to get a youngster about the age of eighteen and teach him the game. Penny Leonard is a made fighter, and he started when he was just a kid."

"Firpo is getting near the thirties, and I believe he is too old to pick up a lot of fine points. He seems to be after the money, and nothing else, and no doubt he cares little about picking up the fine points."

McAuliffe was one of the few experts who picked Dempsey to win the heavyweight championship from Jess Willard. He came within a round of naming the knockout of Georges Carpentier, and he has picked the winner of nearly every big fight in the last three years.

He thinks that Tommy Gibbons has a fine chance to win the title from Dempsey.

"Dempsey will never be as good as he was at Toledo. He's the champion now and he was the desperate challenger when he went against Willard. He's got to pull his punches and it's a bad habit to get into."

"Gibbons is a dangerous man. He's cautious and he won't give Dempsey the chances and the openings that Carpentier did. Dempsey won't have the kick in his punches either, when he finds a man going back with every punch."

BIG SMALL MOUTH BASS IS CAUGHT

One of the largest small mouth bass ever caught in the Brainerd lake region is on exhibition at the Perry hardware company, where His Majesty, dead of course, reposes on a catafalque of crushed ice.

He weighs 5 and 1/4 pounds and is 21 inches in length. He was caught in Pillager lake, a small arm of Gull lake, by Henry VanSickle. The fish will probably land a prize for the fisherman.

PENN TRACK CAPTAINS SET NEW DASH MARKS

Philadelphia, June 18.—Harold E. (Boots) Lever, captain of Penn track team, broke the world's 65 and 75 yard dash records on Franklin field in the alumni track meet. Lever covered the 65 yards in 6.8 seconds, two-tenths second better than the previous record and the 75 yards in 7.5 seconds, clipping one-tenth of a second off the record.

Larry Brown, captain of Penn's 1922 track team, broke the world's 500 meter record by running the distance in 1 minute 3.7 seconds. The old record was held by Sverre Lundgren of Sweden.

Astrologer Forecasts Civil War in 1942-44

New York, June 16.—Civil war in the United States in the years 1942-1944 is prognosticated by Evangeline S. Adams yesterday on the steamship Homeric after a two months' honeymoon in Europe.

Though the stars indicate the future war, there is no immediate cause to worry, she said, as "President Harding is under good conditions and the nation is benefitting."

Miss Adams has predicted many events, among them being the 1917 panic, the Windsor hotel fire, the death of Caruso in his native land, and the death of King Edward, which came to pass. While abroad she read the horoscope of Stanley Baldwin, new British premier.

Bush Making Record

Bash shut out Detroit yesterday. He has now pitched two straight games and 5 innings, total of 23 innings, with no run scored against him.

The Duluth News Tribune today ran a three column picture headed: "Some Pitcher, Swatter and Base Runner is 'Bullet' Joe Bush," stating that "pitching against the St. Louis Browns, Joe Bush, star slaban of the New York Yankees, had a regular field day. Joe succeeded in whitewashing the Browns, 5 to 0, and is shown scoring after slamming out a triple."

MORE IN LIFE THAN MONEY

Writer Admits That His Rules for Living May Be Odd, but He Defends Them Ably.

Do you find your mind dwelling a great deal upon money, upon the making of money, upon the spending of money? I don't know whether my idea, my policy, my practice regarding this matter is wise or not. However, it has worked out to my satisfaction and is not going to cause any regrets at the close of the chapter. I very early made up my mind how I would act in regard to money making and money spending. I said to myself: "I am going to make all the money I can honestly, and I shall spare no effort to increase my usefulness, and as a corollary, my earning capacity. I am going to spend what I need to spend and spend it neither stingily nor foolishly, but in a rational, sensible way. And then I am going to let it go at that. Whether I build up a fortune rapidly or succeed in saving only slowly, I am not going to worry one iota."

The result was that I rarely let my mind dwell on the subject of money. I found myself becoming more and more interested, as I grew older, in what I could accomplish, in what I could put into the world, and less concerned

A Quaker City Idol

Folks meet Wid Mathews, the galloping young outfielder of Connie Mack's rejuvenated Athletics. The youngster has been christened "Spark-plug" and is proving himself every bit as popular and successful as his namesake.

over how much I could have in return. To make the confession which follows will probably damn me as a business man, but the truth is that I repeatedly forgot to go and draw my salary, and was surprised to find two or three checks handed me by the cashier instead of one check—with the result that the cashier finally hit upon the plan of mailing me my salary weekly! Let me make another confession, also a very unbusinesslike one, I fear: I never kept regular tabs on how much money I had in the bank. I knew, of course, in a general way about how rapidly or slowly I was getting ahead of my expenditures and once in a while I would inquire as to the exact status.

I don't like people who are continually thinking about money and continually talking about money. Money isn't life; money is only a by-product of life. The main thing, as I see it, is to develop your abilities to the fullest extent, apply them day by day with all possible diligence and intelligence, honestly earn as much as you can; spend prudently, and, as your circumstances improve, more and more generously and unselfishly utilize the surplus as profitably as you know how. Then forget the money end of life and devote your mind to useful effort.

And the chances are it will all come out right in the end.—B. C. Forbes in Forbes Magazine.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Adv.

Code of the North

(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

FOR seven weeks Jean Ravel had been trudging steadily northward, a black fury in his heart that steadily increased with each mile that brought him nearer to the cabin where Pierre Lacroix was spending the winter, laying his trap lines. For Pierre Lacroix had stolen Marie Duchesne, to whom Jean had been engaged when he started south the spring before to sell his furs.

Jean had returned to find Marie gone—gone with Pierre. And he had set off with murder in his heart.

Pierre was wanted by the police for theft. He had held up a sleigh mail the preceding winter and helped himself to two dogs. It was true his own dogs were dead, and that he had no alternative save a five-hundred mile trudge southward. But Canadian law is ignorant of fine distinctions. Pierre had stolen, and even now the police were after him.

Jean knew this, but he had no intention of notifying the police. His quarrel with Pierre was strictly a personal one, and he meant to settle it in his own fashion. He meant to fight it out with him, man to man, on the snows; and Marie would fall to the winner.

So he trudged north beside his sleigh, the rage in his heart ever increasing as he neared Pierre's cabin. And when at last the cabin came in sight Jean's heart beat so that it nearly burst.

He drove his dogs up to the door and halted them. He rapped upon the door. Marie opened it. At the sight of Jean she uttered a little scream, and stood staring at him, bereft of speech.

"You know what I have come for," said Jean.

"He is not here,"

"Where is he?"

"Laying his lines."

"When will he return?"

"I do not know. A week perhaps."

"Good. I shall wait for him."

He pitched his tent at Marie's door. Marie came to him. "Jean, wilt thou not forgive?"

"I shall forgive when I have repaid," answered Jean.

"Pierre and I loved each other. I was the more to blame. He did not wish me to come with him. We are married. Would you make me a widow?"

Jean ground his teeth in his fury. "All that is nothing to me," he answered. "Thou wast affianced to me. A man seeks revenge for betrayal."

Marie came nearer to him. "If not for my sake," she pleaded, "for the sake of the babe unborn."

Jean started, stared at her. And the flame of anger that overcame him made everything turn red. "All the better!" he cried loudly. "That will be a better revenge than I had dreamed of!"

With a cry Marie fell prostrate in the snow. Jean stood there, smiling, until she picked herself up moaning. And suddenly she began staring out across the plain.

Jean, following her eyes, saw a figure tramping toward the cabin, beside a four-dog sleigh. So Pierre was already returning. She had lied to him, as she had lied before.

Still smiling, Jean drew the pistol from his coat and waited. He saw the look of terror frozen on Marie's face. It was strange that she made no move to intercept him, to save her man, no plea; just stood there looking at him in that frozen silence.

"Good!" said Jean. "I shall not murder. He and I shall fight it out, man to man. Perhaps he will kill me. Then you will be at peace all your days."

And still Marie said nothing. And now the figure was coming nearer and nearer. The setting sun, shining in Jean's eyes, blinded him, and his hat, too, blinded him, so that he could only stand, clutching his pistol, waiting till his enemy was at hand.

His dogs, seeing those of the newcomer, set up a discordant howling. Suddenly, so quickly that Jean was taken by surprise, the other had drawn a pistol and covered him.

"Hands up, Pierre Lacroix!" he cried excitedly. "I have you now."

And then Jean saw that this was not Pierre, his enemy, but a corporal of the North-West Mounted. And he realized that he did not know him.

Jean glanced at Marie, and suddenly something broke within him. He flung his hands up, letting the pistol fall.

"Yes, I am Pierre Lacroix, and I will go with you quietly," he said.

First "Cozy Evening" at Home. It was a remark of Mrs. McNab's to her husband at a movie that resulted in the experiment which ended so disastrously.

"Mac," said she, "we haven't spent an evening at home together in years. Let's," Mac grunted and agreed.

The next night, having consumed dinner, says the New York Sun story, the two sat down in the living room to a "cozy little evening" by themselves. That was at 8:05. At 8:10 Mac picked up the newspaper and with some remark about the market began to read. At 8:15 his cigar went out and the paper slipped from his hand. At 8:20 he commenced to nod and at 8:25 he was frankly and unashamedly snoring. At 8:25 1/2 Mrs. McNab wept bitterly at what she called his perfidy. At 8:30 she shook him till he awoke and the rest of the evening till bedtime was spent in mutual recriminations.
